Comment. A fighter regiment of the fighter division in Puetnitz was stationed at Neubrandenburg airfield prior to late May 1953. This regiment was meanwhile repeatedly observed in Puetnitz. It was also transferred to Puetnitz in the spring of 1952 and returned to Neubrandenburg in November 1952. It is believed that there are better training possibilities for the regiment in Puetnitz and that the pilots are employed from Puetnitz for control missions over the Baltic Sea, as Puetnitz is located considerably nearer to the coast than Neubrandenburg. The assignment of the five twin-engine planes has not been determined.
